Guiding Star: Communication and Participation
Everyone gathers and shares every idea and concern they have.

Shohom:

- Strengths: Idea generation, devil's advocate/red teaming, critical
- Growth Areas: Easily distracted, procrastination

Ernest:

- Strengths: Presenting, completing tasks, and organization
- Growth Areas: Sometimes I'm a bad communicator

Joanna:

- Strengths: Bring people together/ encourage conversation
- Growth Areas: Becoming distracted when conversations go off topic

Derek:

- Strengths: technical, practical, and passionate
- Growth Areas: Being open to alternate ideas (esp. When two ideas are similar)

Aegean:

- Strengths: Prompt and open communication, will hear anybody out
- Growth Areas: Procrastination on group work

Core Values:

- Statement 1: Value open communication, participation, and respect for each other's ideas so that everyone can contribute to the goals.
- Statement 2: Holding each other accountable so that we can progress forward
- Statement 3: Consideration of variety of perspectives outside of our own

Motto: Take cancer out the air!/Cancer begone!

Group Norms: Identify three specific behaviors or practices that describe how your team intends to work

- Statement 1: Express concerns respectfully but efficiently when they arise, whether over text, email, or in person.

- Statement 2: Complete assigned tasks by the deadline and notify the group as soon as possible if you need help or are running behind.
- Statement 3: Being able to receive direct, honest feedback from other members

Success Metrics: Identify three indicators that would make your team say at the end of the year, “This was successful.”

- Statement 1: Each person has made progress on their growth areas listed above.
- Statement 2: Each person completed their assigned responsibilities on time and contributed quality work to the final project.
- Statement 3: Each person was able to pitch ideas into the conversation comfortably

How will you know that you are learning even if your original project idea fails?

- If it fails, we should find out/know why it failed, and use that information to move forward.

Quality Standards:

- Statement 1: Will utilize reliable sources, check work for errors, and make sure everything meets the project requirements before submitting.
- Statement 2: Coming prepared before every class or meeting with things done and ready
- Statement 3: Letting the team review work, so that we are all on the same page about quality, but also information

Conflict Protocol:

- Plan a time to discuss the concern directly and respectfully with the person or people involved in person.
- The conversation should be supervised by the Miner of conflict or all other members of the group.
- Reach out to a coach or instructor if the issue persists.

1st Miner of Conflict: Ernest

What are indicators that your team is healthy?

- Ideas are being given from every team member.
- A balance of debate and moving forward of topics
- Members are not shunned or excluded from conversation
- All members can leave the conversation with a clear understanding of their responsibilities and team goal

How will you regularly check the health of the team?

- Check-in every other weekly team meeting

What will you do when indicators of team health begin to decline?

- Set a time to sit down together to reiterate goals and resolve issues.

Information and Communication:

- WhatsApp, Email, Docs

- Respond within 24 hours

Decision-Making:

- Each member writes their thoughts down on separate documents.
- Points are presented and questions are asked by other members
- Members discuss all points and make a final decision.

Weekly Team Meeting:

- Fridays at 5pm
- Lower GT Connecter (reserve room)
- WhatsApp if virtual
